Cookies and Other Tracking Technologies

We may use cookies, tags, and other tracking mechanisms to track information about your use of our Services, and to provide, customize, evaluate, and improve our Services.

Cookies and Other Technologies

A cookie is a small alphanumeric identifier that is placed on your website browser when you visit a website. Cookies are transferred to your device's hard drive through your web browser for record-keeping purposes. Some cookies allow us to make it easier for you to navigate our Services, while others are used to allow us to track your activities at our Services. Below are descriptions of the cookies and other technologies we use on our Site.

- Session Cookies. Session cookies exist only during an online session. They disappear from your device when you close your browser or turn off your device. We use session cookies to allow our systems to uniquely identify you during a session while accessing our Services. This allows us to display content and provide our Services to you while navigating our Site.
- Persistent Cookies. Persistent cookies remain on your device after you have closed your browser or turned off your device. We use persistent cookies to track statistical information about user activity.
- Clear GIFs, Pixel Tags and Other Technologies. Clear GIFs are tiny graphics with a unique identifier, similar in function to cookies. In contrast to cookies, which are stored on your computer's hard drive, clear GIFs are embedded invisibly on web pages. We may use clear GIFs (a.k.a. web beacons, web bugs or pixel tags), in connection with our Services to, among other things, track activities of Site visitors, and to help us manage content on our Services.
- Third-Party Analytics. We use third-party tools, such as Google Analytics, which are operated by third-party companies, to evaluate usage of our Services. These third-party analytics companies use cookies, pixels, and other tracking technologies to collect usage data about our Services to provide us with reports and metrics that help us evaluate usage of our Services, improve our Services, and enhance performance and user experiences. To learn more about Google's privacy practices, please review the Google Privacy Notice at <https://www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners/>.

- Third-Party Advertising. We work with third-party ad networks, analytics, marketing partners, and others (“third-party ad companies”) to personalize content and display advertising within our Services, as well as to manage our advertising on third-party Websites. We and these third-party ad companies may use cookies, pixels tags, and other tools to collect browsing and activity information within our Services (as well as on third-party websites and services), as well as IP address, unique ID, cookie and advertising IDs, and other online identifiers. We and these third-party ad companies use this information to provide you more relevant ads and content within our Services and on third-party websites, and to evaluate the success of such ads and content.
- Session Replay. We use session replay technologies so we can diagnose problems with our Services and identify areas for improvement. The data collected by this technology is not accessible by or shared with third parties or service providers.

Tracking and Advertising Choices

If you wish to prevent cookies from tracking your activity on our websites or visits across multiple websites, there are tools you can use to disable cookies and opt out of interest-based advertising.

- Browser Solutions for Disabling Cookies. If you wish to prevent cookies from tracking your activity on our website or visits across multiple websites, you can set your browser to block certain cookies or notify you when a cookie is set. The Help portion of the toolbar on most browsers will tell you how to prevent your device from accepting new cookies, how to have the browser notify you when you receive a new cookie, or how to disable cookies altogether. Visitors to our Services who disable cookies will be able to browse the Services, but some features may not function.
- Industry Solutions for Opting Out of Interest-Based Advertising. Notwithstanding the above, you may follow the steps provided by initiatives that educate users on how to set tracking preferences for most online advertising tools. These resources include the Network Advertising Initiative (<https://thenai.org/about-online-advertising/>) and the Digital Advertising Alliance (<https://digitaladvertisingalliance.org/>).

Note, your opt out may not be effective if your browser is configured to reject cookies. Opting out of participating third party ad networks does not opt you out of being served advertising. You may continue to receive generic or “contextual” ads on our Services. You may also continue to receive targeted ads on other websites, from companies that do not participate in the above programs.

We are not responsible for the completeness, effectiveness, or accuracy of any third-party opt-out options or programs.
